Siemens, Constellation, Landis+Gyr, and GE Join the Association for Demand Response & Smart Grid

(Washington, DC – October 4, 2012) The Association for Demand Response & Smart Grid (ADS) announced today that four more leading companies had become members of the organization. The new members are Siemens, Constellation, Landis+Gyr, and GE.

Dan Delurey, Executive Director of ADS, welcomed the newest members: “These four companies are helping to grow the new areas of demand response and smart grid, and now their membership in ADS will be helping to grow our organization.” Delurey continued, “Their expertise will contribute greatly to ADS’ informational and educational projects in the coming months. Their enthusiasm and support for the 2013 National Town Meeting on Demand Response and Smart Grid, scheduled for July 9-13, 2013 will also serve to make our signature event bigger and better for the upcoming 10th anniversary.”

ADS is a non-profit organization based in Washington, DC, that focuses on the development and exchange of information among policymakers, utilities, technology companies, and other stakeholders.
